Kentucky Women's Cancer Screening

Kentucky physicians play an integral part in assuring that uninsured women in Kentucky who need breast and cervical cancer diagnostics and treatment can access care through the Kentucky Women's Cancer Screening Program (KWCS) and the Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Program (BCCTP). The Kentucky Cancer Program, University of Louisville developed this presentation to enhance utilization of these programs. This presentation explores health care disparities that women from diverse populations experience. The presentation contains video vignettes of real Kentucky women discussing their experiences accessing health care. It is hoped that those who attend this presentation will help change referral patterns and there by decrease the number of women from Kentucky who fall in the category of being never or rarely screened for breast and cervical cancer.
